

FADED TO A SHADOW.

Worn Down by Five Years of Suffering from Kidney Complaint.

Mrs. Remethe Myers, of 180 South Tenth St., Ironton, O., says: "I have worked hard in my time and have been exposed again and again to changes of weather. It is no wonder my kidneys gave out and I went all to pieces at last. For five years I was fading away and finally so weak that for six months I could not get out of the house. I was nervous, restless and sleepless at night, and lame and sore in the morning. Sometimes everything would whirl and blur before me. I bloated so badly I could not wear tight clothing, and had to put on shoes two sizes larger than usual. The urine was disordered and passages were dreadfully frequent. I got help from the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and by the time I had taken four boxes the pain and bloating was gone. I have been in good health ever since."

Didn't Have Auk Eggs.

Prof. Edwin Ray Lancaster, president of the British association, was busy in his study one morning recently when a country woman sought an interview with him. Laying a parcel on his desk she said, triumphantly: "There's two of 'em." "Two of what?" said the professor. "Two 'auk' eggs. I 'ear they are worth £1,000 pounds apiece." The distinguished scientist undid the parcel carefully, looked at the eggs and said with a smile: "These are not auk's eggs. Those that are so valuable are the eggs of the auk—a-uk." "Ch, ha, ha," said the woman. "Wait till I get 'old of my son, 'Enery. I'll give 'im wot-oh for sending me on a wild goose chase."

Natural Color of Pure Water.

It was long ago discovered that the natural color of pure water is blue, and not white, as most of us usually supposed. Opinions have not agreed on the cause of the green and yellow tints; these, it has been discovered by W. Spring, are due to extraneous substances. Dissolved calcium salts, though apparently giving a green tint, due to a fine invisible suspension, have no effect on the color of the water when adequate precautions are taken. The brown or yellow color due to iron salts is not seen when calcium is present. The green tint is often due to a condition of equilibrium between the color effect of the iron salts and the precipitating action of the calcium salts.—Scientific American.

FINDS VIRTUE IN OLD CLOTHES.

Men's Garments Shaped to the Figure by Age Catch Artist's Eye.

To the eye of the artist the garments of the modern man are only tolerable when age has adapted them somewhat to the lines of the figure; to the average artist a new suit of clothes is an abomination. "It is not only that new clothes are more ugly than old," said a knight of the palette who discussed the question; "to my mind no one can be properly easy or graceful in them."

"I never feel that I properly know a man until I have met him wearing an old suit. Certainly no man can possibly be his natural self in evening dress."

"I have noticed again and again how different the same people are when wearing different clothes. I went, for instance, to a large family gathering some time ago, and for some reason everybody had donned full evening dress. What a difference it made! We were all on terms of intimate friendship, but somehow the clothes brought in an element of coldness and formality. We all felt it—even the women, although, of course, the fair sex are not easily persuaded of the merits of well-worn garments. But no man who has discovered the ease and comfort of them will readily give them up. As for the artistic side of modern clothes, it only comes when they have mellowed by use!"

WELL PEOPLE TOO

Wise Doctor Gives Postum to Convalescents.

A wise doctor tries to give nature its best chance by saving the little strength of the already exhausted patient, and building up wasted energy with simple but powerful nourishment.

"Five years ago," writes a doctor, "I commenced to use Postum in my own family instead of coffee. I was so well pleased with the results that I had two grocers place it in stock, guaranteeing its sale."

"I then commenced to recommend it to my patients in place of coffee, as a nutritious beverage. The consequence is, every store in town is now selling it, as it has become a household necessity in many homes."

"I'm sure I prescribe Postum as often as any one remedy in the Materia Medica—in almost every case of indigestion and nervousness I treat, and with the best results."

"When I once introduce it into a family, it is quite sure to remain. I shall continue to use it and prescribe it in families where I practice."

"In convalescence from pneumonia, typhoid fever and other cases, I give it as a liquid, easily absorbed diet. You may use my letter as a reference any way you see fit." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" a pkg. "There's a reason."

THROW LIGHT ON NEW BUNCO GAME.

MATRIMONIAL SYNDICATE OPERATED BY NEW YORKERS.

BLONDE WIDOW LEADER.

Mrs. Brown, Queen of Love Grafters, Who Fleeced Men of Wealth—Ingenious Dodge Exposed by the Victims.

New York.—The mysteries are being further unveiled in the matrimonial bunco establishment operated by Mrs. Bina Finnegan-Verrault and Mrs. Izella Mason-Brown, which was but partly exposed by the complaints of James V. McClellan, the Pennsylvania merchant Leo Klesler, the insurance man, and "Count" Ignaz Zollinof, who is now a grocer, all of whom aver that they were wheedled out of various sums by the "charming widow, Helen Hamilton," otherwise Bina Verrault.

The police now say that these men and several others like them were but the "small fry" in the schemes of these women and that several of Wall street's wealthy men, two in particular, paid dearly for their acquaintance.

Mrs. Brown, it seems, took care of the "big game" and left to Mrs. Verrault those of the McClellan-Kiesler stripe.

Mrs. Brown is of the peroxide blonde type. She is tall and well built, with fine hazel eyes and she scarcely looks her 40 summers. She has a prettily turned arm and is free and graceful of action.

According to police investigations, Izella Mason ran away from Halifax about 20 years ago with J. P. Brown, a civil engineer 20 years her senior. A few years later Brown died, leaving her a neat little fortune in insurance. Then Mrs. Brown went to Boston. Before she departed she made the acquaintance of Bina Finnegan, and they made a circuit of the country, touching Chicago, Philadelphia and

FATHER AND DAUGHTER LEAD LIVES OF TRAMPS

Girl and Aged Parent Traveling Over Country Together Seeking False Mother and Wife.

Des Moines, Ia.—Father and daughter, tramps of the lowest order, with a record of fifteen years together on the road, were guests the other night in the city jail. The man, who gave his name as J. J. Francis, is 74 years of age. The girl is 25 years old.

The couple were picked up in the railroad yards near West Seventh street.

"Don't separate me from my daughter," the old man begged when he was taken into the jail. "Seldom has she been out of my sight. Mary is a good girl and would not leave me."

The girl refused to talk. "I'm just going to stay with my father until he dies," she said laconically, "and then I am going to work. This life is killing me, though. We are on the go day after day the year round, traveling from the north to the south with not a break. The police won't let us stay anywhere and we just have to keep on going."

Francis finally got confidential with a newspaper reporter.

"Yes, I am a tramp, nothing more nor less. I've had a history just like every other man on the road. I don't generally tell anything about my past life, but if you want to hear and the police will let you talk to me a little while I'll tell it to you."

Fifteen years ago, when Mary was but 10 years old, my wife ran away and left me. I was running at that time a small grocery store in Cincinnati, O. Up to that time my married life had been happy. My wife eloped with a close friend of mine. He was a snake in the grass, a reptile—well, words can not express it. He won the love of my wife from me and my daughter. She left without leaving a note to explain her absence. Soon I learned of the treachery of my friend. I sold my business. I took the money I secured and with my little daughter took up the search for my wife. For a time I had sufficient money to take care of the little girl. We gradually began to tramp from one place to another. We have other cities. Then, after a separation, during which Miss Finnegan was married to George T. Verrault, they met in New York.

Mrs. Brown's money had disappeared, owing to her extravagant living, and she secured a position as a cloak model and maintained a small flat on Eighty-second street. One day she saw an advertisement for a stenographer to a man of wealth and in a few days was on very good terms with a Wall street man who has a large family.

The Wall street man's wife died and he wanted Mrs. Brown to marry him, but she preferred being fancy free. He indulged her every whim, but he failed to win her for a wife.

She worked the "personal" columns of newspapers to great advantage. A Broad street stockbroker fell violently in love with Mrs. Brown and together with her she got much money out of him, but did not elope, because there were other advertisements and other candidates were calling.

When the love business got too heavy for Mrs. Brown alone she sent for Mrs. Verrault, and that accommodating young woman promptly left her husband, then in Baltimore, and the steady procession of love-lorn men and fortune hunters continued.

Mrs. Brown did not rely entirely upon the advice of Mrs. Verrault in the selection of the victims, but had around her several younger women and a few men. One of these men was an actor connected with a Broadway stock company. When the love project began to bring in substantial returns he quit the stage and took a job as butler in the household.

Mrs. Brown's pretty daughter Helen, dressed a maid's outfit and waited on the door.

Whenever an accepted applicant for love honors would appear he would be wined and dined until he was dizzy. The invariable impression would strike him that the "widow" had nothing but money. Then Mrs. Brown was very suddenly hard pressed for funds for the Kentucky Coal & Fuel company, a concern which existed only on paper, and was conducted by the galaxy of "widows" from an office in Wall street. Its principal work was to float a few thousand shares of stock that weren't worth a cent.

The concern lasted long enough to take in about $50,000.

One feature of the love-plant was a spiritualistic show in which Mrs. Verrault would tell the millionaires all kinds of queer stories that spirits were telling.

"Your grandmother says to invest $10,000 in the Kentucky Fuel Company," was a favorite message. A Brooklyn brewer gave $10,000 and came back with several enclosures.

The spiritualistic exhibition was a tremendous success. MacClellan, Count Zollinof, Leo Klesler, the Mutual Life Insurance man, and others of that kind did not see this feature of the place because they were only out for love-making.

The establishment maintained a gambling layout and the clink of chips was heard at the roulette wheel or poker table all night long.

"We Are On the Go Day After Day."

crossed the country north and south and east and west. Only twice have I gained track of my wife and her lover. Once seven years ago I learned she had been for a few months in Los Angeles, Cal. She was gone when I reached that city. The other time I was about two months behind her in Akron, Ohio.

"I finally acquired the habit of tramping. I'll keep it up now until I die or find the man who broke up my home. My daughter refuses to leave me. We have got to do what we do not care what happens to us."

TRIUMPHED EVEN OVER DEATH.

Remarkable Deed Ascribed to Austrian Bandit of 1880.

Dr. Loye tells the following strange story, taken from the archives of an Austrian police officer, and relating to an execution said to have taken place in Vienna in 1880: A well-known bandit named Schavenburg was caught, together with four of his associates, and they were all condemned to death. They were already on their knees, ready to submit to their fate, when Schavenburg addressed the judge, asking that his four companions might be ranged in single file in front of him at a distance of eight feet from each other.

"If," he said, "after I am beheaded, I get up and walk to the first of my comrades, will you pardon him?"

The judge thought he was pretty safe in complying with the request. "But if I walk up to the second, the third, and the fourth, will you pardon those also?"

The judge replied that he would obtain their pardon from the emperor. The bandit was satisfied, bent his head, received the mortal blow, and his head rolled down; but to the great surprise of the judge and the spectators, the body got up, walked alone, passed the first, second, third and fourth of the condemned men, and fell down. The occurrence was told to the emperor, who, according to promise, pardoned the four criminals.

"Boys Will Be Boys."

"There were a couple of old forty-niners down in Tombstone, Ariz.," said a tourist the other day, "who were great friends. One of them was 80 years old and the other 81. They were taking their morning toddy one day and fell into a disagreement over the date of some pioneer occurrence. Each was insistent upon his own recollection of it, and finally they got into a regular quarrel. Backing away from the bar, they drew their guns and blazed away at each other, but their sight was so dim and their hands so unsteady that all the bullets went wide. When their guns were emptied the barkeep emerged from beneath the counter and made them shake hands and make up. The local paper, the Epitaph, in describing the occurrence, treated it in an indulgent vein and closed by saying: 'Well, boys will be boys.'"

Sunshine Helps Sugar Cane.

The effect of sunshine on sugar growing is said by the New Orleans Picayune to make the crop more productive. Thus Spain has become as successful with beet-sugar growing as with her established cane-sugar industry, notwithstanding an arid climate. On the other hand, the storms and fogs that envelop the British islands are said to have prevented the development of the beet-sugar industry there. England's annual average hours of sunshine are only 1,400, while Spain has 2,000 hours.

California Recovering.

California bank deposits amount to $540,000,000 and the banks in which they are held are credited with assets of $693,000,000. The loss suffered by San Francisco, by the earthquake and fire, was unequaled by any similar catastrophe in the history of the world, but despite its magnitude, some of its appalling force is lost in the contemplation of the financial showing made by the entire state. There is great promise of large crops of grain and fruits, the mines and oil wells are turning out new wealth more rapidly than ever before, and if the insurance companies would pay up their losses and the striking sailors return to work at the highest wages ever paid for similar employment, the Bay City would blossom into its old-time splendor at a rate that would astonish the world.

CUBAN CONGRESS GIVES

PALMA FULLEST POWERS

Has Right to Appropriate Any Public Funds For War Purposes and May Treble the Force of Rural Guards.

Havana.—The extra session of congress called by President Palma completed at one sitting the business for which it was summoned, namely, the granting to President Palma of the fullest powers not already constitutionally possessed by the executive for carrying on the work, including the right to appropriate any public funds for war purposes, revoking appropriations voted at the preceding session of congress in order to permit the diversion of the moneys involved to prosecution of the war, and authorizing increase of the rural guards to 10,000, and the artillery to 2,000 men. This trebles the former force of rural guards and doubles the artillery. These measures, which were combined in one blanket bill, were passed by party votes, the liberals and independents refraining from voting and the liberal nationalists voting with the moderates.

ROOSEVELT TO TAKE A HAND

Will Send Taft to Cuba to Make Investigation of Conditions.

Oyster Bay.—After a protracted conference with Secretary of War Taft, Acting Secretary of State Bacon and Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, President Roosevelt has addressed an important communication to Cuba, and arranged to send Secretary Taft and Bacon to that island to make a thorough investigation of conditions there and lend their influence to restore peace.

The communication is addressed to the Cuban minister to the United States, Senor Quesada. It is an impassioned plea to Cuba to realize her responsibilities as a self-governing republic, and to restore peace in the island. Her attention is called in no uncertain language to the responsibility which the United States bears to the island and the certainty that our responsibility will necessarily be exercised could peace not be preserved. The president says he has certain information that the peace of the island is now menaced and that American property has been destroyed.

SPIRIT WAS FLESH AND BLOOD.

Woman Exposes Medium and Is Beaten For Her Interference.

Salt Lake City.—George J. Arnold, the Spiritualistic medium, was found guilty of committing battery upon the person of aged Mrs. Mary Brandon on the afternoon of the 8th of this month. The testimony of Mrs. Brandon and her son-in-law, W. H. Dye, showed that they had visited the establishment of Arnold and his partner, James Dickson, at 269 East Third South street, for the purpose of exposing what they had been led to believe was a rank fraud; that Dickson was giving them a "sitting" in a darkened room when the old lady lay hold upon the flowing drapery of one of the bogus spirits which the "medium" had called forth; that the spirit had proved to be a flesh and blood being of much strength and agility; that a struggle had ensued, the lady trying hard to maintain her hold on the robe of the spirit and the latter seeking to make its escape.

In the midst of this struggle Mrs. Brandon received a heavy blow in the face, which knocked her down. She had recognized Arnold as the person who had struck her.

Handcar Loaded With Workmen Goes Through Bridge.

Toledo, O.—A hand car loaded with trackmen of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad ran off an open draw of the Haume bridge Friday night and all on the car were drowned. The number of men on the car is said to have been twelve. So far no bodies have been recovered. Owing to the fact that the men took the car from a point some miles from Toledo, where work is being done, identification of the missing men has not been learned.

WOMEN'S NEGLECT

SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, N. J., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: Restored health has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling about it for the sake of other suffering women."

"For a long time I suffered untold agony with a female trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Hinky Dink and Barrie.

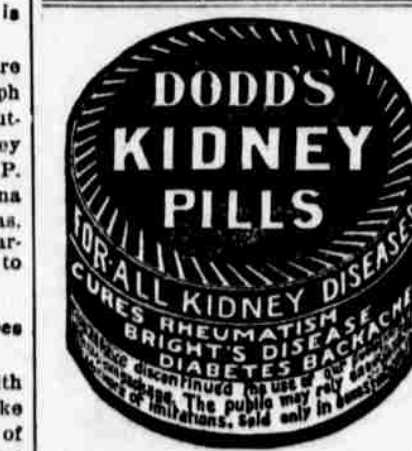

H. G. Wells of England, the forecast-novel man and sociologist, met an interesting person in Chicago and in a magazine article tells all about the experience. "I made," he says, "the acquaintance of Alderman Kenna, who is better known I found throughout the states as 'Hinky Dink,' saw his two saloons and something of the Chinese quarters about him. He is a compact, upright little man, with iron-gray hair, a clear blue eye and a dry manner. He wore a bowler hat through all our experiences in common and kept his hands in his jacket pockets. He filled me with a ridiculous idea, for which I apologize, that, had it fallen to the lot of J. M. Barrie to miss a university education and keep a saloon in Chicago and organize voters, he would have looked own brother to Mr. Kenna."

Impossible Advice.

In pulling down an old room at Boeking, England, workmen came upon a wine flagon imbedded in the brickwork. A page of foolscap dated Aug. 15, 1783, found inside the flagon gave details of the building of the chimney of Josiah Reeve, the owner, with the names of "ye master carpenter" and "ye master bricklayer." It concluded: "Josiah Reeve, father of six children, leaves this memorandum in this place. His wife was Elizabeth Houston, of Great St. Helena, London, to whom he was married March 18, 1773. Reader, go thou and do likewise."
